Road fatalities double

'Crazy' speeds.

Vehicles caught doing over 200 km/h; high speeds a factor in most fatal collisions this year

Reports of Alberta vehicles clocked travelling in excess of 200 km/h are drawing concern from the Calgary police traffic unit, who say it's only a matter of time before someone else is killed on an area road.

To the end of July, Calgary roads have seen 20 fatal collisions, more than double the nine recorded in the same period last year, according to data from the Calgary police.

Analysis of those incidents Thursday indicated speed played a role in a majority of them.

On Wednesday night, officers nabbed a motorcyclist on Deerfoot Trail who neared the 200-km/h threshold and on Sunday RCMP spotted two vehicles racing just south of Red Deer at speeds of up to 214 km/h.

"It's crazy," police Const. Jim Lebedeff said Thursday.

"We did some math the other day. At 214 km/h, a vehicle will cover two-thirds of a football field in a second."

Potential law

- Speed bump. Rod Knecht, Edmonton's police chief and president of the Alberta Association of Chiefs of Police, recently announced he's seeking provincial legislation to allow officers to temporarily seize the vehicles of motorists who drastically exceed posted speed limits — a move Calgary police Chief Rick Hanson backed when speaking to reporters Wednesday.

Speed was also believed to be a factor in a motorbike crash in Edmonton Wednesday night that claimed the life of a 30-year-old man.

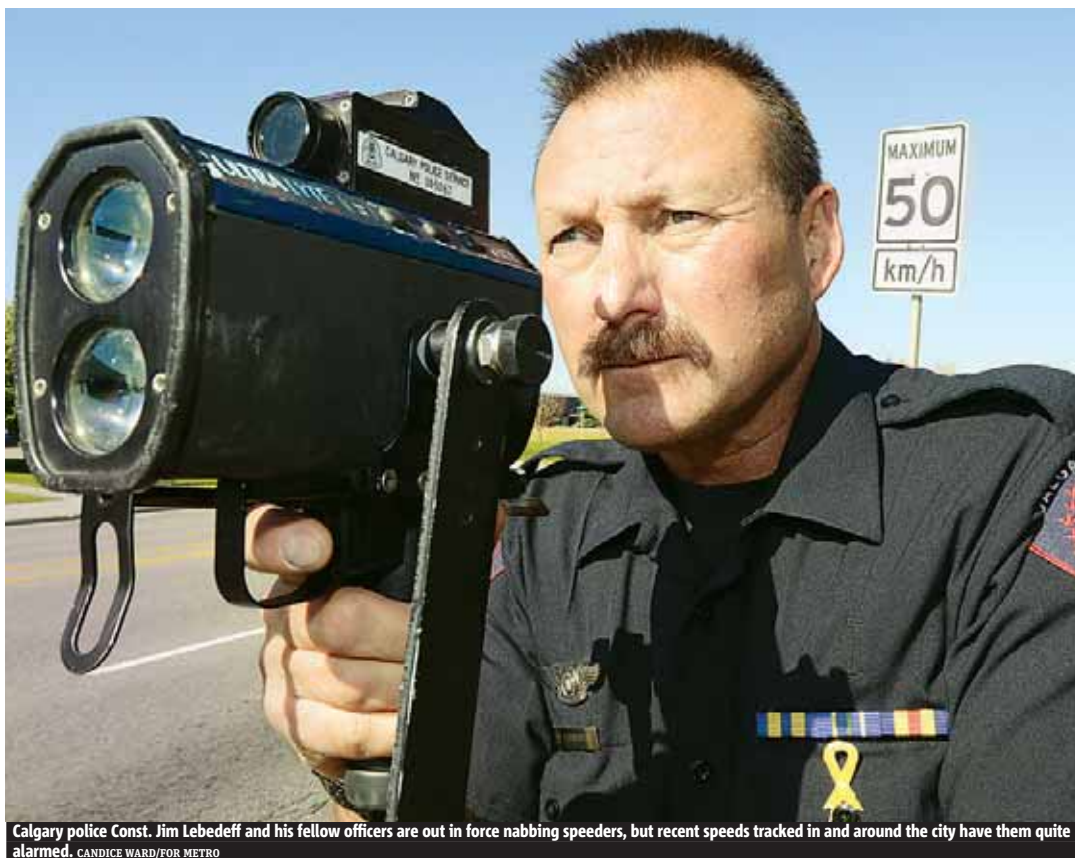

Lebedeff said he's aware of a number of other excessive-speeding incidents in and around Calgary this summer.

Don Szarko with the Alberta Motorists Association said driver over-confidence has been a problem in the province for years.

"We are building and designing better roadways and vehicles," he said.

"When you look at the road, the vehicle and the driver, the driver is kind of the weakest link."

Elections act

Four-year terms for municipalities, confirms minister

Alberta municipalities will be elected every four years and elections will remain in the spring, Municipal Affairs Minister Doug Griffiths confirmed Thursday.

Griffiths has long said he wants the province's municipal officials to move to four-year terms, up from the current three-year terms.

Legislation to change the Elections Act has to be introduced this fall, in advance of the vote in 2013.

Griffiths said there could be more changes in future, but at this point he wanted to focus only on things that had broad support.

Fare hike

Taxi rates set to rise next week

Recent taxi-meter rate increases will take effect on Monday.

As agreed upon by Calgary's city council, fares will jump by 4.4 per cent, as per the taxi-cost index.

This is the first fare increase since July 2008.

The city's taxi fleet will undergo a full inspection, and meters will be recalibrated and tested Oct. 9-26.

The city is also reminding Calgarians that taxi-related concerns and compliments can be filed to the city by calling 3-1-1 or online at 311online.calgary.ca. METRO

Cook's ex-girlfriend, Hayley Muir, initially alerted police to the fraud after becoming suspicious herself. She expressed doubt on Thursday about the sincerity of Cook's apology.

HAWCS by the numbers

$2M

The HAWCS program costs approximately $2 million annually when combining police salaries, insurance, fuel, maintenance and other costs. Next year, the police will spend $1.3 million replacing HAWC2 and plan to spend the same replacing HAWC1 in 2016.

60

Police estimate HAWCS is the first unit on scene at up to 60 per cent of the emergency calls it is assigned to. The helicopters can provide valuable information about a scene to officers attending on the ground.

63

In 1994, the year before the HAWCS program was launched, Calgary police were engaged in 63 high-speed pursuits. Last year, officers were involved in less than one-third the number of chases as HAWCS logged a record 2,600 hours in the sky.

600

The HAWCS unit also supports other emergency-response groups. It has been involved in 600 Calgary Fire Department calls since 1995, assisting with things like river searches.

12K

Since the introduction of HAWC2 in 2008, the unit has responded to more than 12,000 calls and is directly attributed to 1,840 arrests and 2,856 Criminal Code of Canada charges.

22/7

HAWCS operates 22 hours a day, seven days a week. Originally, the helicopters only flew peak crime hours from Wednesday to Saturday. The police air-support unit consists of 17 full- and part-time members, eight of which are civilians.

All data provided by the Calgary Police Service

High-speed pursuits 'negligible'

Air policing.

Increasing presence of HAWCS program improving public safety, according to proponents

JEREMY NOLAÏS

jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

For Calgary police, chasing bad guys has never been so simple.

In recent years, the presence of the 17-year-old Helicopter Air Watch for Community Service (HAWCS) program has increased to the point that the service has revised its high-speed-pursuit policy, according to Supt. Richard Hinse.

In the event of a runaway criminal, "Our officers actually stop their patrol vehicles — they're finished," he said. "We never even start the pursuit."

Of course, there are a few instances in which the helicopter is undergoing maintenance or can't be everywhere at once, but as of last month just six high-speed vehicle pursuits had occurred within city limits this year. Annual pursuit numbers have consistently declined since HAWC1 was introduced in 1995 and a second aircraft was added in 2006.

"Some cities see hundreds (of pursuits) — comparable-sized cities," Hinse said.

That fact alone is enough to convince city officials like Ald. Shane Keating of HAWCS' importance.

"When you're talking about a ratio this size, between police and the general population, you can put more resources on the ground — and it's still not as safe — or you can do something like HAWCS to make it safer and make it more effective," said Keating, who sits on the Calgary Police Commission board.

HAWCS has actually improved police apprehension rates for crimes like stolen automobiles, Hinse said.

The program was the first of its kind in Canada but many other major cities have followed suit with their own air-policing initiatives.

HAWCS was borne out of tragedy and likely never would have taken off without support of the community.

It all started when Calgary police Const. Rick Sonnenberg was struck and killed by a stolen vehicle while laying down a spike belt on Deerfoot Trail during a high-speed pursuit in 1993 — the fleeing criminal, Andrew Yazlovasky, was travelling in excess of 135 km/h at the time.

Sonnenberg's sister, Lisa Stinson, with the help of police and others formed the Constable Rick Sonnenberg Memorial Society. Over the years, the society raised $4 million to put towards the HAWCS program.

Reached at home, Stinson said she couldn't be happier with evolution of the program.

"I would say that a number of lives have been saved," she said. "I'm very thankful for that."

And as for the criminals who think they've evaded police, Hinse has a clear message: Think again.

"People don't drive into eternity, they drive to places.... People are transporting themselves from A to B. We just wait for B."

Extradition. Albertan man facing terrorism charges sent money to holy warriors: Police

An Alberta man facing extradition to the United States on terrorism charges told police he sent money to a group of holy warriors in the Middle East.

Sayfildin Tahir Sharif is accused of supporting a terrorist group that took part in a suicide bombing in Iraq in 2009 that killed five American soldiers.

A videotape of a police interrogation shows that Sharif told police after his January 2011 arrest that he sent $2,800 to a mujahideen group as a debt repayment.

The video shows that RCMP Cpl. Ian Ross also questioned Sharif about counselling a young woman in Morocco named Fatima over the Internet to become a suicide bomber, asking if she wanted to go to heaven and have angels all around her.

"She was saying she wanted to die, to strap on a belt (of explosives) and die for you," Ross says on the video.

This Sunday, producers of the first-ever Big Brother Canada are holding an open casting call in our city, looking to cast the next reality TV star and, hopefully, the eventual winner.

I say hopefully, because when it comes to reality shows, a Calgarian winning is as likely as a Flames playoff run.

In fact, this city's lone winner of a reality show is Melissa O'Neil, who won Canadian Idol more than seven years ago.

Since then, we've been voted out, kicked off and eliminated from practically every reality show.

Seasons of Project Runway Canada, So You Think You Can Dance Canada, Canada's Got Talent and Canada's Next Top Model have all come (and gone) without declaring a single Calgarian as their respective winners.

THE REALITY OF CALGARIANS ON TELEVISION

Even as recently as last week, Calgary's Kelsey Verzotti was the first to be sent down the yellow brick road to obscurity on CBC's musical-inspired talent search Over The Rainbow.

Our next best bet is Calgary's Whitney L., who'll go for the final rose, when The Bachelor Canada premieres next week on CityTV.

Judging from the show's previews, however, she's essentially already been cast as the villain of the inaugural series.

Sadly, on the Bachelor's American counterpart, history has shown Whitney L. will likely score lots of airtime, but even more haters.

Recently, the closest we've come to winning a popular reality show has been with the Top Chef Canada series, where last year, Chaucer's Connie DeSousa sliced her way into the finals and Muse's Xavier Lacaze finished in the top five in season two.

But not being stars of the reality TV genre does have its advantages.

So far, we've been spared any attempt at The Real

In Mike's opinion

"When it comes to reality shows, a Calgarian winning is as likely as a Flames playoff run. In fact, this city's lone winner of a reality show is Melissa O'Neil, who won Canadian Idol more than seven years ago. Since then, we've been voted out, kicked off and eliminated from practically every reality show."

Housewives series and a few years ago, the Cowboys reality show was essentially dead upon arrival.

Although if you've never seen the ill-fated attempt at reality television, I insist that you search for the videos on YouTube.

You will love and deplore me, all at the same time.

So, should you hedge your bets on a Calgarian winning Big Brother Canada?

I don't see why not. Each and every day, we're confronted with challenges more difficult than any reality-show competition.

Whether it's jumping out of the way of renegade cyclists, holding your pee during the Stampede Parade, finding your friend's house in Copperfield, trying to find parking downtown, running away from C-Train cops or waiting in long food-truck lines, we've already been trained to take on the rest of the country, especially if there is a mini-donut eating competition.

Cops cleared in death of axe-wielding man

Incident. Attacker believed to have suffered from mental illness

JEREMY NOLAÏS

jeremy.nolais@metronews.ca

Police officers who shot multiple times at a man wielding an axe at a northwest Calgary home last year were acting in self-defence, an oversight body has ruled.

The Alberta Serious Incident Response Team (ASIRT) handed down its verdict Thursday after investigating the death of Peter Spiewak at his home in Citadel Oct. 20, 2011.

It is believed Spiewak was suffering from mental-health issues and was threatening other people in the home when officers were called.

Upon arriving at the scene, police were confronted by Spiewak, who was armed with an axe, and quickly fired six shots in the span of 1.8 seconds, according to a detailed account provided by Cliff Purvis, ASIRT executive director. Multiple shots struck the attacker, Purvis added.

"It was revealed that from the time that police officers arrived on scene until report of shots fired was issued by the police officers, only 65 seconds had elapsed.... This incident developed and was over very quickly," Purvis said.

Accident

During the police officer-involved shooting of Peter Spiewak, one of two officers on scene fell backwards and struck his head on a rock, suffering minor injuries, according to Cliff Purvis with the Alberta Serious Incident Response Team.

Cliff Purvis, executive director of ASIRT, cleared two officers of wrongdoing in the shooting of a man in front of the man's home last year. JEREMY NOLAÏS/METRO

E. coli. Restaurant associations ease fears

As a recall of Alberta beef expanded south of the border Thursday, restaurants in Calgary continued to maintain that the meat they're serving is safe.

Though not one of the 10 restaurants contacted by Metro wanted to go on record to discuss recent concerns of E. coli contamination from Alberta-based XL Foods Inc., Mark von Schellwitz with the Canadian Restaurant and Food Services Association said his organization has yet to receive a single report of contaminated meat.

"The thing to remember is safety of their guests is the No. 1 priority for restaurateurs," he said. "If there's any chance of any tainted product, they will ensure it's removed quickly."

Questions were raised this week about the two-week delay between the discovery of E. coli in some XL Foods products and the announcement of a voluntary recall Sept. 16. A senior official with the Public Service Alliance of Canada suggested that time period was long enough to allow some contaminated meat to get to tables at Alberta homes and restaurants.

But von Schellwitz said the primary meat distributors to Alberta restaurants are Sysco and Gordon Food Services — neither of which have reported any contamination.

A member with the Alberta Housing and Lodging Association also reported no knowledge of infected meat being served by its member restaurants.

There have been eight reported cases of E. coli-related illnesses in Alberta, but officials have not directly linked any to XL Foods products.

But the cases did prompt the U.S. Department of Agriculture to halt import of XL products earlier this week and on Thursday it extended a public-health alert to stores in 30 states, including retail giant Walmart.

Senior citizens. Long-term-care home fees going up five per cent

The Alberta government is raising accommodation charges for residents of long-term-care facilities by five per cent beginning Jan. 1.

Health Minister Fred Horne says that increase will be offset for low-income residents by increasing financial assistance through the Alberta Seniors Benefit and Assured Income for the Severely Handicapped programs.

Horne says the fee increase will "help ensure that residents continue to receive quality accommodations and related services, by helping long-term-care operators meet rising accommodation costs."

Sandra Azocar, executive director of the Friends of Medicare, says the real winners are the operators of care homes.

She says Horne's "pre-occupation with private operators' financial bottom line" is indicative of the government's move toward "commodification of seniors' care."

The Alberta Union of Public Employees says the fee hikes need to be accompanied by greater accountability.

"The government says this increase will help ensure quality accommodation and services for seniors in long-term care," said president Guy Smith. "But there aren't enough mechanisms in place to ensure that operators actually put that money toward those services."

PLENTY TO CELEBRATE IN CALGARY: STROMBO

Canadian TV personality George Stroumbouloupoulos on hand for Saturday's free concert at Olympic Plaza

LISA
WILTON

lisa.wilton@metronews.ca

Calgarians should be proud of their city's cultural achievements, says one of Canadian television's most recognizable personalities, George Stroumbouloupoulos.

"Calgary has a really good arts and music scene," said Stroumbouloupoulos, who is co-hosting a free concert Saturday at Olympic Plaza to celebrate Calgary's selection as a 2012 Cultural Capital.

"But because it's the power base of the country, everyone spends so much time focusing on the politics of Calgary and its oil industry that sometimes the cultural stuff is ignored."

The popular host of CBC's George Stroumbouloupoulos Tonight says the city is coming into its own as a cultural centre, citing this month's inaugural Nuit Blanche all-night art event as an example.

"A lot of people don't identify with the politics of the majority or the personality that Calgary has publicly," he says.

"And those people are usually the ones who make or support art and music."

Saturday's outdoor concert — which features performances by local favourites The Dudes, Samantha Savage Smith and Alberta country trio, High Valley — is one of many events taking place across the province this weekend as part of the 2012 Alberta Culture Days.

Smith says she has noticed increased interest in Calgary's music scene during the past few years.

"Things are growing here," she says. "The Sled Island Music and Arts Festival, for example. It's not small potatoes anymore. They're becoming more nationally and internationally known. There's a pretty heavy amount of artists here and they're making more of a push to be heard."

Culture Days started three years ago to raise awareness of the wide range of arts and culture available across the country, and to encourage people to participate in the cultural life of their communities.

More than 1.2 million Canadians attended Culture Days activities in 800 communities in 2011. Those numbers are expected to grow this year, especially in Calgary, which has held several Cultural Capital events during the past several months.

Both Calgary and Niagara Falls, Ont., were named Cultural Capitals this year, and will likely be the last cities to hold the title for the foreseeable future, as the Conservative government cut the program's funding this past spring.

"It's going to be missed, we just don't know how much yet," says Stroumbouloupoulos.

Alberta Culture Days runs Sept. 28-30. The Olympic Plaza concert is open to families and starts at 5:30 p.m.

In celebration of her 50th birthday, Patti Blackstaffe hopes to raise at least $50,000 in five weeks through social media for Providence, a local organization that builds schools that provide services for kids with disabilities.

Turning 50 inspires woman to help kids

No gifts, please. Patti Blackstaffe is asking for donations in lieu of gifts for her 50th birthday

Ever been stumped by what to get someone who has everything for his or her birthday?

One Calgarian believes the answer can be found in community-outreach fundraising and is using social media to get it.

Patti Blackstaffe is asking Calgarians through Facebook and Twitter, to donate money to a local charity in celebration of her milestone 50th birthday in lieu of big, expensive gifts.

Gifts she said she doesn't need.

"I'm not filling my house with useless things because I care about the environment and the fact that we are living too large anyways," she said.

"It's time to really think about paring down and giving to others."

An avid supporter of the local charity Providence, which provides schools for kids with disabilities, Blackstaffe is attempting to raise $50,000 to go towards the organization's recently opened McKenzie Towne school.

"The whole idea of this thing is about the children. Yes, I'm wrapping a birthday around it, but it's about a school for children with disabilities that is doing some incredible work."

Despite not yet officially having launched, Blackstaffe's fundraiser has already raised $930. The official launch is Oct. 1 and it runs for five weeks, until Nov. 3.

High Five! for Calgary flicks

In this week's Metro Calgary High Five! we take a look at some popular films and TV shows filmed in the Calgary area. Here are a few movies to flick on after the Calgary International Film Festival wraps up this weekend.

Cool Runnings

Shot largely in Calgary, Cool Runnings tells the story of the Jamaican bobsled team in their attempt to make it to the Winter Olympics. Having hosted the Winter Olympics in 1988, Calgary was the ideal location for the 1993 film, which features John Candy. Who can forget the classic line, "Sanka, you dead, mon?"

Hell on Wheels

AMC's hit show Hell on Wheels has filmed two seasons in the Calgary area, including the nearby Tsuu T'ina Nation. The show depicts the construction of the first transcontinental railroad in America. Included in the extensive cast is hip-hop artist Common, who plays newly freed slave Elam Ferguson.

Brokeback Mountain

The steamy Heath Ledger and Jake Gyllenhaal flick Brokeback Mountain was filmed largely in southern Alberta, using the Rocky Mountains as the film's backdrop. Shot in 2004, the apartment Ledger shares with his movie wife Michelle Williams is located in the town of Fort Macleod, about two hours south of Calgary.

Superman

Several scenes for the 1978 film Superman and Superman II, featuring Christopher Reeve as the man of steel, were shot in southern Alberta. Multiple small towns and villages were used as backdrops for the set of Smallville, including the hamlet of Blackie, which sets the scene for Kent farm.

Mystery, Alaska

Banff and Canmore made a great backdrop for the Mystery, Alaska — a hockey-themed comedy-drama set in, of course, Alaska. The film is about a group of local hockey players who get a chance to play against a professional team from the NHL. The film features several stars including Russell Crowe and Burt Reynolds.

Frustrated scientist develops pain reliever for ailing wife. Bobby Orr speaks up to help people in pain.

In 2007, pain medications had failed to help Dr. Joseph Gabriele's wife get out of bed for more than a year. As a respected specialist in molecular pharmacology, Gabriele was forced into his laboratory outside the university in pursuit of developing a pain reliever that would relieve Sue's exhausting struggle for peace and comfort.

The natural pain reliever he created is known as LivRelief.

Gabriele understood he must follow his moral compass in order to help others overcome pain; particularly those who had given up hope.

Dr. Gabriele asked himself - What athlete has impeccable integrity; suffers pain from severe injuries; and is sensitive to helping others?

Bobby Orr was the ideal candidate.

Orr has two artificial knees. Six surgeries and chronic pain cut short his career. With little-to-no downside, Orr skeptically agreed to sample LivRelief.

"After three weeks, I went to my wife Peggy and said 'Could this be in my head? She said let me try this on my elbow. A few days after that she came back to me and said do you have any more of that stuff?' Orr gave LivRelief to his sister who has arthritis in her hands, and aslo to his nephew and his golf pro. Two years have passed.

"The results have been incredible. I would recommend it to anyone suffering in pain"

'Seafarer of the year' goes to Costa Concordia crew

The crew of the Costa Concordia has been awarded the Seafarer of the Year award at the Lloyds List Global Awards ceremony for "the courage" demonstrated by crew members when the ship hit rocks and capsized last January.

Thirty-two crew and passengers died in the Jan.

The judges cited the crew for "the genuine examples of bravery and professionalism," noting that if not for the "skilled response" of the majority of the crew "the loss of life could have been far higher." The award was presented Wednesday in London. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS asked that bond be revoked. A U.S. District Court judge is weighing the request, while the defence plans to appeal the convictions.

Several of the people convicted are married, and prison terms could leave children with one or more parents behind bars.

The attorney for one woman said she should be allowed to remain free until sentencing, in part because she's busy harvesting crops and canning food for her 10 children.

"She is the sole support of these children. She does the housework, washes the clothes, cooks all the meals and does the sole parenting duties," wrote Joseph Dubyak, an attorney for Linda Schrock. Her husband, who also was convicted in the case, has been jailed since his arrest.

Lester Miller, who has remained free, works in construction and his family will rely on the money he makes over the next few months until his sentence is completed, said his attorney, Dean Caro. "The possibility of saving as much money as possible before being imprisoned is not one to be taken lightly." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mafia got 2.5% cut, construction boss says

Quebec. Lino Zambito is the first person to describe his own personal involvement in construction-related wrongdoing

A former construction boss has delivered groundbreaking testimony about a system of corruption in the industry that saw him pay Canada's most powerful Mafia family a 2.5 per cent cut on public contracts.

Lino Zambito told Quebec's corruption inquiry about a cartel-like operation lording over the construction industry in the province and he said he had no choice but to participate.

He described a system that drove up the cost of public works during his testimony Thursday, perhaps the most damning to be heard at the in-

Only certain companies were allowed to bid for public contracts, he said. They would set their prices artificially high. They reached a group decision on who would submit the lowest bid. Then they took turns winning contracts, he said.

And when it was all said and done, he said, the Cosa Nostra claimed a percentage.

Zambito said that, as far as his own company was concerned, that fee was a 2.5 per cent share of the value of a sewer project, paid to the once-dominant Rizzuto family.

N.S. Suspects sought in alleged confinement case

A 16-year-old boy was sleeping on the streets of Halifax when he awoke to find himself in a van, and was taken to a home where two men kept him captive and sexually assaulted him earlier this month, the RCMP say in document filed this week with the provincial court in Bridgewater, N.S.

Police are appealing for the public's help in finding two suspects wanted in the case.

The accused, David James Leblanc, 47, and 31-year-old Wayne Alan Cunningham, faces charges of forcible confinement and sexual assault.

Chinese activist artist says he won't pay rest of $2.4M fine

Ai Weiwei. Artist's supporters have interpreted the penalty as official retaliation against his activism

Activist artist Ai Weiwei said he does not intend to pay $1.1 million demanded by Beijing tax officials after he lost a final appeal in the case on Thursday, a defiant stance that threatens further confrontation with authorities.

Beijing's No. 2 Intermediate Court rejected a second and final appeal of the $2.4-million fine levied against Ai's design company for alleged tax evasion.

The company earlier submitted a financial guarantee of $1.3 million to officials in order to get a review of his case. That money will be automatically collected, Ai said, but he won't pay the difference.

"Our intention is that we are not going to pay," Ai said. He said he wasn't sure what will happen as a result and still had to discuss the plan with his lawyers.

The fine was levied last year, soon after he was released from detention in an overall crackdown on dissent.

Ai and his company, Fake Cultural Development Ltd., accused the tax bureau of violating laws in handling witnesses, gathering evidence and company accounts. The court rejected those claims, and the ruling cannot be appealed again.

Ai said he was disappointed but not surprised.

"What surprises me is that this society, which is developing at such a rapid rate today, still has the most barbaric and backward legal system," he said.

Stuck in China

Ai Weiwei says authorities have yet to return his passport, taken after he was detained without explanation for three months last year. Authorities had said they would give his passport back after a probationary period that ended in June.

- Not having the passport has kept him from going to exhibitions of his work and other engagements in Washington, New York and Berlin, he said.
- A sculptor, photographer and installation artist, Ai has used his art and online profile to draw attention to injustices in Chinese society and the need for greater transparency and rule of law.

Icebreaker sets a first for China

A Chinese icebreaker docked Thursday in Shanghai after becoming the first vessel from China to cross the Arctic Ocean, a landmark trip that is part of Beijing's efforts to expand its presence in the Arctic.

With melting icecaps accelerating the opening of new shipping routes and the exploration of oil, gas and mineral deposits in the Arctic,

China has been eager to gain a foothold in the region.

The icebreaker Snow Dragon returned to Shanghai after wrapping up a three-month mission that took it from the Pacific Ocean to the Atlantic via the Arctic, the Shanghai-based Polar Research Institute of China said in a statement. The vessel's 119 crew members completed an oceanic survey in waters around Iceland with their Icelandic counterparts.

Though it has no territorial claims in the Arctic, China has been lobbying for permanent observer status on the eight-member Arctic Council in a bid to gain influence.

During summer months when they are passable, Arctic shipping routes between China and Europe are 40 per cent faster than travelling through the Indian Ocean, the Suez Canal and the Mediterranean Sea.

The institute's statement said Snow Dragon gained "first-hand information about navigation in Arctic sea lanes as well as the oceanic environment, and carried out useful exploration and practice for our nation's ships that use Arctic passages in the future."

Earlier version of Leonardo da Vinci painting revealed

Double. Second version, made 10 years before the one on display in the Louvre, needs further study, expert says

The mystery behind the most enigmatic smile in art — Leonardo da Vinci's Mona Lisa — just got a little more complicated.

In a coming-out party of sorts in Geneva, rounds of flashbulbs popped Thursday as the non-profit Mona Lisa Foundation pulled back the curtain to present what it claims is a predecessor of the world's most famous portrait.

But even the experts brought in by the foundation weren't sure about that claim.

The art world is prone to all sorts of rumours and speculation — and, periodically, discoveries that jolt accepted norms. Two years ago, a retired French electrician claimed that he had turned up 271 Picasso works that had been sitting for decades in his garage — and Picasso's heirs claimed theft.

But a new claim about the world's most famous painting, which draws millions of visitors to Paris' Louvre museum each year, resonates like a thunderclap in the art world. It also prompts a new look at a painting that still raises a lot of questions for experts — not least the timeless "Is she smiling or not?" THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A painting attributed to Leonardo da Vinci and representing Mona Lisa is seen during a preview presentation in a vault in Onex near Geneva. On Thursday, the Mona Lisa Foundation presented evidence supporting its claim that there have always been two portraits of the Mona Lisa by Leonardo da Vinci: the one displayed in the Louvre in Paris and a second version made 10 years earlier. Harper accepts an award in N.Y.C., takes swing at UN Named a statesman.

Prime Minister collects plaudit from Henry Kissinger instead of hearing Netanyahu, Abbas across town

Prime Minister Stephen Harper took a swipe at the United Nations and assailed Iran on Thursday as he picked up an international statesman award, suggesting once again that the UN has too often wooed dictators despite their appalling human-rights records and sinister aims.

Canadians expect their government officials to endeavour to make decisions "for the wider interests of humanity," Harper told a reception at the glitzy Waldorf Astoria hotel after receiving his award from the Appeal of Conscience Foundation.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper will be a few blocks away from the UN building. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"That is, of course, not the same thing as trying to court every dictator with a vote at the United Nations, or just going along with every international consensus, no matter how self-evidently wrong-headed," Harper's shot at the UN came as he was criticized back home for once again skipping the United Nations General Assembly.

Hundreds of world leaders were gathered just a few blocks away discussing the biggest global issues of the day, including the situation in Syria, the ominous dispute between Israel and Iran and the eruption of anti-American violence in the Middle East.

The prime minister had harsh words for Iran as he accepted the foundation's "world statesman" award from storied U.S. statesman Henry Kissinger, Richard Nixon's onetime secretary of state.

The elderly Kissinger, now 89 and frail, met with Harper earlier in the day at his Park Avenue office and said later Thursday that he agreed with Harper's tough stand against Iran.

Canada recently closed its embassy in Tehran.

SARS-like virus sickens two men

Global health officials have alerted doctors to be on the lookout for a virus related to SARS, but said there were no signs the disease was behaving like the respiratory syndrome that killed hundreds in 2003.

Former VANOC head John Furlong fights back against abuse allegations

Denies any wrongdoing. Furlong threatens legal action over newspaper story alleging he abused aboriginal children

MATT KIELTYKA
Metro in Vancouver

John Furlong vows to take legal action against the Georgia Straight newspaper after it published a story alleging he physically and mentally abused aboriginal children as a teacher at a Burns Lake school.

The story, written by Laura Robinson and titled "Furlong bio omits secret past in Burns Lake," features allegations from alleged victims' signed affidavits that an 18-year-old Furlong ran physical-education classes at Immaculata Elementary School and abused students.

The former head of the Vancouver Organizing Committee for the 2010 Olympic and Paralympic Winter Games (VANOC), alongside lawyer Marvin Storrow, addressed media Thursday afternoon to issue a denial.

"As you are aware, I have been accused of physical abuse and apparently within the last hour, sexual abuse. I want you to know I categorically deny absolutely any wrongdoing and I believe that the RCMP, in looking into this matter, will discredit the complaint entirely because it just did not happen," Furlong read from a prepared statement.

"I feel that my character has been recklessly challenged and I have no choice now but to proceed with legal action."

The Georgia Straight story takes issue with claims made in Furlong's recent memoir, Patriot Hearts, that he arrived in Canada in 1974.

In his statement, Furlong said he omitted his time in Burns Lake because it was "fairly brief and fairly uneventful."

"I went back to Ireland and came to Canada years later as a landed immigrant," he said.

Furlong did not take any questions at the hastily called press conference in Vancouver, where the Order of Canada recipient now works as executive chairman of the Vancouver Whitecaps soccer club.

RCMP released a brief statement confirmed they're "aware of the allegations involving John Furlong and are investigating".

The Georgia Straight issued a brief reply Furlong's statement.

"The story was backed up with eight sworn affidavits. Marvin Storrow did not make Mr. Furlong available to respond to questions from the journalist, Laura Robinson," the weekly paper states.

"She also attempted without success to reach Mr. Furlong through his publisher, Douglas & McIntyre. Ms. Robinson was told that Mr. Furlong had "nothing more" to say to her."

Beijing murder conviction after decade-long wait

A decade of uncertainty ended with a cry of anger from a convicted murderer in a Beijing courtroom Thursday as Li Ang lashed out at the court that found him guilty of the 2002 killing of his girlfriend, Amanda Zhao.

The couple were studying in the Lower Mainland and lived together in Burnaby, B.C. when Zhao's body was found.

"It's unfair. I've been wronged," yelled Li after he was sentenced to life in prison, according to a relative of Zhao's who was in the courtroom.

The now 28-year-old Li was convicted of strangling Zhao in 2002 and stuffing her body in a suitcase before dumping it at Stave Lake on the outskirts of Vancouver.

Due to a lack of evidence, Li was released by Canadian authorities and fled Canada back to his native China where he lived with his parents and changed his name to Li Jiaming.

Investigators gathered enough evidence to charge Li after he had fled the country.

He was arrested last summer when Canadian authorities finally gave in and sent the evidence for the case to Beijing after a long battle in which China insisted the trial be conducted there.

As part of the agreement, China agreed to waive the death penalty.

Trials in China are notoriously quick, but this one took a full year.

Li's lawyer Zou Jiaming said little about why the case took a year to process. Zou said her client will appeal the intentional homicide guilty verdict.

"I don't know (why it took a year), it's the judge's business," said Zou from Beijing.

Zou said her client will appeal the intentional homicide guilty verdict.

Meanwhile, Zhao's parents will now continue with a civil suit against Li's parents.

Ambrose. Minister cites 'sex-selection abortion' in defending her vote

The federal cabinet minister responsible for the status of women has offered at least a partial explanation for why she voted in support of a pro-life motion.

Rona Ambrose says on Twitter that she's long been worried about discrimination against girls through "sex selection abortion."

Ambrose stunned observers Wednesday when she rose to her feet in favour of backbench MP Stephen Woodworth's motion to strike a committee to examine the definition of a human being.

Though the motion was defeated 203 to 91, Ambrose's tweet suggests she opted to support the motion as a way to raise awareness about the issue.

Ambrose was one of 10 federal Conservative cabinet ministers who supported the motion, despite the fact Prime Minister Stephen Harper has said he has no plans to reopen the abortion debate in Canada.

Syrian government sends mass texts telling rebels to surrender

Psychological ploy. Army warns fighters it's time to lay down their weapons, get rid of foreign supporters

Syrian authorities sent text messages over cellphones nationwide Thursday with a message for rebels fighting President Bashar Assad's regime: "Game over."

The messages signed by the Syrian Arab Army also urged the rebels to surrender their weapons and warned the countdown to evict foreign fighters has begun. The texts appear to be part of the regime's psychological battle against the rebels, but are highly unlikely to have any effect on fighters intent on toppling Assad.

Syrians say they began receiving the messages a day after rebels bombed a military command centre in Damascus — a major security breach of the heavily guarded capital that highlighted the regime's vulnerability in the face of a rebellion growing in confidence and capabilities.

People with cellular subscriptions received the messages while those with prepaid phones did not.

Syria's two cellphone providers are privately owned, and the government would presumably have to pay for the service. Government officials were not available for comment.

In August, Syrian army helicopters dropped leaflets warning rebels in Damascus to hand over their arms and seek amnesty.

Despite Wednesday's high-profile attack, the two sides have been locked in a stalemate after 18 months of conflict. Activists say the death toll since the uprising against Assad began in March last year has topped 30,000, with nearly two-thirds of the casualties reported in the past five months.

On Thursday, rebel fighters launched a push to try to take control of Aleppo, Syria's largest city and a major strategic prize in a stalemate civil war, opposition activists said.

Heavy clashes erupted Thursday in more than a dozen locations in the city, Syria's largest with three million people, said Mohammed Saeed, a local activist. Government forces shelled several districts, he said, speaking via Skype.

Rebels also attacked a compound of Syria's political security department in the city, said Rami Abdul-Rahman, head of the Syrian Observatory for Human Rights.

Israel rattles sabre at Iran during UN address

Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu warned Thursday that Iran will have enough enriched uranium to make a nuclear bomb by next summer and urged the world to draw a clear "red line" to stop it in its tracks.

Saying it was getting "late, very late" to stop Iran, Netanyahu flashed a diagram showing the progress Iran has made toward creating a bomb. He said Iran had already completed the first stage of uranium enrichment, and then he drew his own red line on the diagram to highlight the point of no return — the completion of the second stage and 90 per cent enrichment.

"Iran is 70 per cent of the way there and ... well into the second stage. By next summer, at current enrichment rates, they will have finished the medium enrichment and move on to the final stage," Netanyahu said. "From there it is only a few more weeks before they have enriched enough for a bomb."

Netanyahu has repeatedly argued that time is running out to stop Iran from becoming a nuclear power and the threat of force must be seriously considered.

"I believe that faced with a clear red line, Iran will back down — and it will give more time for sanctions and diplomacy," the Israeli prime minister said. "Red lines don't lead to war, red lines prevent war ... nothing could imperil the world more than a nuclear-armed Iran."

Netanyahu's speech marks perhaps his final plea before Israel takes matters into its own hands. Israeli leaders have issued a series of warnings in recent weeks suggesting that if Iran's uranium-enrichment program continues it may soon stage a unilateral military strike.

The Obama administration has urgently sought to hold off Israeli military action, which would likely result in the U.S. being pulled into a conflict and cause region-wide mayhem on the eve of American elections.

A Carney candidacy? Don't bank on it, his employer says

Liberal-party gossip. Finance Minister Jim Flaherty says he has 'no concerns' about the effect of all the rumours on Carney's credibility

The Bank of Canada is trying to douse rampant speculation that Mark Carney is a possible candidate for the leadership of the Liberal party.

The bank pointed Thursday to an interview Carney gave last spring in which he said he's not contemplating a career in politics and insisted he's focused on his twin jobs as governor of Canada's central bank and chairman of the international Financial Stability Board.

But his denials to date have not been sufficiently categorical to dissuade some Liberals from dreaming of a Carney candidacy.

A "Mark Carney for leader" Facebook page has popped up.

It has garnered one friend so far — Tim Murphy, one-time chief of staff to former prime minister Paul Martin.

It would spice things up

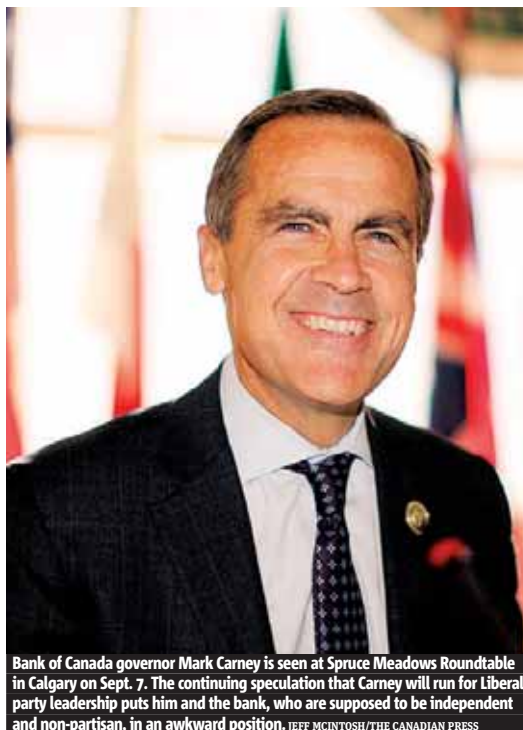

There is no doubt a Carney candidacy would be a coup for the once-mighty Liberal party, which was reduced to rubble in the 2011 election.

- His international stature and sterling economic credentials would give the party much-needed credibility and turn what is shaping up to be a Justin Trudeau cakewalk into a must-watch contest.

Murphy and another former Martin insider, Richard Mahoney, are among the names of influential Liberals rumoured to have urged Carney to take the plunge. Neither could be reached for comment.

Speculation about Carney's possible interest in the top Liberal job has swirled for a couple of years. But the rumour mill went into hyper-drive on Wednesday after news broke that Justin Trudeau will formally launch his leadership bid on Tuesday in Montreal.

Facebook bullying. Top court's anonymity ruling gets likes

The Supreme Court of Canada was widely praised Thursday for granting anonymity to a teenage girl so she can pursue a lawsuit over a bogus Facebook page that she says defamed her.

The ruling was welcomed as a necessary step in child protection in the Internet age, one that extends to victims of cyber-bullying the same legal right to anonymity that is currently granted to sexual assault complainants, children in family-law disputes and most accused criminals under the age of 18.

In a 7-0 ruling, the judges ruled that the girl is entitled to anonymity to prevent her from becoming a victim a second

Americans assemble for prayer

Christian conservatives who blame "moral depravity" for everything from the recession to terrorism are converging on Philadelphia for a rally they hope will spark a religious revival as the U.S. election nears.

Called "America for Jesus 2012," the prayer assembly is attracting support across a spectrum of Protestant clergy and activists. Among the scheduled speakers are religious broadcaster Pat Robertson and Family Research Council president Tony Perkins, along with preachers such as Cindy Jacobs of Generals International ministry who say they're prophets with a direct line to God.

John Blanchard, national co-ordinator for "America for Jesus 2012," said the two-day event starting Friday night is non-partisan. It's modelled after the 1980 "Washington for Jesus" rally, considered a pivotal show of organizational strength by the then-fledgling Christian right. Bishop Anne Gimenez, whose late husband John helped lead the 1980 assembly, is a lead organizer of the Philadelphia gathering.

"We are praying that God would touch America," said Blanchard, executive pastor of Rock Church International in Virginia, which the Gimenez family founded.

NASA. Signs of stream uncovered by Mars rover

Scientists say NASA's newest Mars rover has found signs that a stream once flowed across the surface near the site where it landed.

Curiosity touched down in a crater near the Martian equator last month. The red planet today is dusty and dry but scientists think it was once warmer and wetter.

Evidence of an ancient stream came from analyzing the size and shapes of pebbles and gravel near Gale

Crater. Mission scientists said Thursday it appeared the water was fast-moving and deep.

Images from space have provided hints of a watery past at Curiosity's landing site. The latest discovery on the ground confirms that.

Curiosity is headed toward a spot where three types of terrain meet. Its ultimate destination is a mountain rising from the centre of the crater.

Love letters by Hitler's spin doctor a tough sell

Buddhist statue found by Nazis carved from meteorite

Stranger than fiction.

Chemical analysis reveals artwork was carved from ancient fireball that fell to earth.

An ancient Buddhist statue that a Nazi expedition brought back from Tibet shortly before World War II was carved from a meteorite that crashed on Earth thousands of years ago.

What sounds like an Indiana Jones movie plot appears to have actually taken place, according to European researchers publishing in the journal Meteoritics and Planet-

Reaction

"This looks like a solid piece of geochemical forensic work."

University of New Mexico associate professor Rhian Jones discussing the 'iron man' statue

ary Science this month.

Elmar Buchner of the University of Stuttgart said Thursday the statue was brought to Germany by the Schaefer expedition. The Nazi-backed venture set out for Tibet in 1938 in part to trace the origins of the Aryan race — a cornerstone of the Nazis' racist ideology.

The existence of the 10.6-kg statue, known as "iron man," was only revealed in 2007 when its owner died and it came up for auction, Buchner told The Associated Press.

German and Austrian scientists were able to get permission from its new owner, who wasn't disclosed, to conduct a chemical analysis that shows the statue came from the Chinga meteorite, which crashed in the area of what is now the Russian and Mongolian border around 15,000 years ago.

Scientists not involved in the study told the AP that the research linking the statue to the meteorite was credible.

Nortel. Former execs engaged in 'cookie-jar accounting': Crown

Three former Nortel executives accused of defrauding millions from the now-insolvent tech firm knowingly participated in a "cookie-jar accounting" scheme, the Crown alleged in closing submissions Thursday.

Ex-CEO Frank Dunn, ex-CFO Douglas Beatty and ex-controller Michael Gollogly each face two counts of fraud for allegedly manipulating the Ottawa company's financial statements. All three have pleaded not guilty.

Crown attorney Robert Hubbard told Ontario Superior Court Justice Frank Marrocco that these top players "told lies" about the company's finances

These lies, the Crown argued, involved the three executives manipulating the books to show an inaccurate return of profitability. That, in turn, would trigger large bonuses for them even though the company was struggling financially. THE CANADIAN PRESS

CN tests out natural-gas trains in oilsands region

Retrofitting project.

Converting diesel-fired locomotives could cut CO₂ emissions by 30%

Canadian National Railway is exploring whether it's feasible to use cheap and relatively clean natural gas to power its trains instead of diesel.

To start out, CN has retrofitted two of its existing diesel-fired locomotives to run mainly on natural gas. It's testing the locomotives along the 480-kilometre stretch between Edmonton, a key energy processing and pipeline hub, and the oilsands epicentre of Fort McMurray, Alta.

Longer term, CN and three other partners are looking at developing an all-new natural-gas locomotive engine as well as a specialized tank car to carry the fuel.

Natural gas giant Encana Corp. is providing the fueling, which, along with maintenance, will be taking place in Edmonton.

Canadian National Railway is testing two natural-gas-fired locomotives, like the one shown above, in Alberta's oilsands region to see if it's feasible to switch from diesel to a fuel that's cheap, plentiful and relatively clean. CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAY

Energy Conversion Inc., the U.S. company that's supplying the conversion kits to CN, says the move will cut carbon dioxide emissions by 30 per cent and nitrogen oxide emissions by 70 per cent over a locomotive duty cycle.

"Natural gas has a lower carbon content compared with diesel fuel, so that locomotives using natural gas — if the railway technology employing this form of energy ultimately proves viable — would produce significantly fewer carbon dioxide emissions," CN chief operating officer Keith Creel said in a release.

Railcars currently carry machinery and construction materials up to the oilsands, and extraction byproducts such as petroleum coke and sulphur south.

Cost-cutting shifts burden to provinces, budget officer says

Financial outlook.

Parliamentary official projects lower levels of government will add enough debt to resemble Greece, Italy

Ottawa's cost-cutting measures have put it on a sound fiscal track for the future, but the provinces are left holding the bag, says Canada's budget watchdog.

Parliamentary Budget Officer Kevin Page's latest long-term projection on government finances suggests Ottawa has little to fear from the loss of revenue and rising costs tied to the aging population.

Page also judges the Canada Pension Plan and Quebec Pension Plan fiscally sound.

But the report, released Thursday, shows provinces and municipalities adding so much debt over the next 70 years or so they would resemble Greece and Italy if something is not done.

The report calculates that provinces and their municipalities have a fiscal gap of about two per cent of gross domestic product now — or $36 billion — and by 2086 will have debt worth 350 per cent of GDP. Meanwhile, Ottawa will be in a structural surplus.

Page cautions that this is a "what if" scenario and is not a forecast, but adds that governments need to be aware of the fiscal track they're following to ensure they make the right policy decisions.

"We're not saying in the report that the provinces have to panic and start taking measures right now," Page said in an interview.

"But in terms of dealing with aging demographics ... if they wait five years the gap goes from something like two to 2.3 (per cent of GDP). If you

Bruce Willis and Joseph Gordon-Levitt play the same character in the time travel flick Looper. HANDOUT

Reel Guys

CROUSE AND
MARK BRESLIN

Nothing average in this film about Joe

Looper. Joseph Gordon-Levitt channels Bruce Willis in time travel flick. Metro's Ned Ehrbar sits in for Mark Breslin this week

Richard: Ned, the actors aren't the stars of the movie, the ideas are. Is it alright? Nope, but what time travel movie is? Future crime bosses could have done the killing themselves and sent the bodies back to be disposed of, but where's the fun in that? We need the two Joes in one place to get the story revved. It's what happens after that is interesting. Did you buy into the story?

Ned: I totally bought into the story, thanks in large part to how it's told. Having been a huge fan of Rian Johnson's first film, Brick, I realize I'm more than a little predisposed to love this. He takes the noir brushstrokes used in that film and sends them into the future, creating one that's gritty and real enough to be believable. Heck, he even makes time travel and telekinesis feel mundane within the world of the film, which is a neat trick.

RC: It sure is. He uses the sci-fi premise to allow the character of Joe in both forms to examine his life; past, present and future, and discover what's really important to him. It's humanist science fiction that values people over special effects. It's also a wildly entertaining chase movie, with enough sci-fi to keep the left side of your brain engaged while the right brain will thrill to the chase.

NE: I'll admit I was wary of the decision to use prosthetic makeup to make Joseph Gordon-Levitt look more like Bruce Willis, but they pull it off for the most part. And the way the two actors work together to create one character — rather than have Gordon-Levitt just do a Willis impression — is fantastic. It's also the most I've enjoyed Willis in years.

RC: It's two, two Joes in one. I thought Gordon-Levitt nailed the cadences of Willis's voice. Willis is Willis, but he does world-weary like no one else. I also enjoyed Emily Blunt as a protective mother whose son (Pierce Gagnon) is on Old Joe's hit list. Ditto Jeff Daniels who takes a break from The Newsroom to play the looper boss.

NE: Great performances all around, for sure, in a movie that's smart, well-made and just so much fun. I wish I

Synopsis

Thirty years in the future time travel is illegal. The only people who use it are criminal organizations who send undesirables back to the past to be disposed of. Joe (Joseph Gordon-Levitt) is an experienced looper — or present day trigger-man. He doesn't count on a crime lord from the future ordering his loop be closed. That is, sending his future self, Old Joe (Bruce Willis), to present day to be executed.

Do phone-sex-chat operators keep their job a secret?

While Lynnea admits that close friends and family know she works as a phone-sex operator, she typically tells people in social settings that she works as a phone operator for the Home Shopping Network.

Though she currently has a long-term boyfriend who knows and accepts her profession, she said the topic wasn't always easy to navigate.

"There have been guys I dated in the past that weren't going to accept it, but that's also someone I was not going to spend my life with, either," she said.

"I have had some that have gotten concerned as if I am cheating on them, but that's not the case."

Ruby, a single mom, started taking calls as a PSO from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. in a room on the other side of the house from where her kids were sleeping. She told Metro once her son became an adult, she told him what she really does for a living and he supports her.

"I'm very up front with it, I'm not ashamed of what I do," Ruby said. "This is my job, just like if I was a nurse or a teacher."

Looking for a job that pulls in six figures? Why not try talking dirty?

Phone sex. Even with the Internet, dial up fun is still appealing to some — here a few women talk about their jobs as operators

CASSANDRA GARRISON

Metro World News in New York

The sleeper comedy For a Good Time, Call... in theatres across Canada, has perked interest in the world of phone sex.

It's a long-time industry that is still quietly plugging away, despite the rise of Internet porn.

The film chronicles the adventures of two young women who launch a phone sex line together out of their New York City apartment.

It's not long before they're rolling in thousands of dollars.

But while real-life phone sex operators say the money is definitely good, they also caution that it doesn't happen overnight.

Lynnea, 30, is a phone sex operator based outside Pittsburgh. She's been in the industry for more than 10 years, and told Metro the notion of quick cash while working from home during her college years is what drew her to explore the profession.

In her first year, she made $20,000. Now, she said, she easily makes $160,000.

Films like For a Good Time, Call... spark an interest in the phone sex industry. HANDOUT

"It's not quick money, you have to build your clientele," Lynnea said.

"It took about five years till I was rolling in money and I'm not making a million a month, but I've been able to purchase a home, I get new vehicles, I get exotic vacations, I can do all of that."

Phone sex operator Lynnea, who makes $160,000 per year talking dirty.

her company's dispatcher and gets paid 50 cents per minute.

For her, the big money with phone sex — which she describes as narrated porn — comes from repeat clients who she can keep on the line.

Her longest call lasted more than 10 hours.

"It's probably not realistic to make $10,000 in a month. You have to get publicity, you have to advertise," said Ruby, who is originally from Queens in New York but is now based in Florida.

"If you can land what we call in the business a whale, you are going to do well, but those are few and far between."

And, according to these PSOs, as phone sex operators call themselves, phone sex takes a lot more than a little dirty talk.

It takes a certain personality to keep clients interested, leading them to call back again, they said.

And a PSO has to be willing to explore the deepest depths of sexuality.

Lynnea refuses to talk about anything that is illegal in real life, like pedophilia or bestiality.

But Ruby, a so-called "no-taboo" PSO, will discuss any fetish a client wants to talk about.

"Anything goes," she said.

"If you want to talk about reading a library book or you want to talk about getting your (expletive) cut off, that's fine — I'm an actress."

Drama

Won't Back Down

Director. Daniel Barnz

Stars. Maggie Gyllenhaal, Viola Davis

If it weren't for alluring performances from Oscar-nominees Viola Davis and Maggie Gyllenhaal, Won't Back Down would be as bland as its uninspired title. A heavy-handed drama about a single mother and an overworked teacher who use bureaucracy to overturn a failing school, the Daniel Barnz (Beastly) drama is predictably aimed at rousing audiences. But while topical enough in today's times, the obvious outcome won't make the grade with most audiences.

STEVE GOW

Family/Comedy

Hotel Transylvania

Director. Genndy Tartakovsky

Stars. Adam Sandler, Selena Gomez

It's not that the notion of a hotel exclusively for misunderstood monsters seeking refuge from hostile humans isn't clever, but in Hotel Transylvania at least, the premise overstates its welcome. Featuring the voices of such talents as a vampiric Adam Sandler and Selena Gomez, the family-friendly film aims high with a visual play on gothic gags that unfortunately only endure as long as you are watching such things as flatulent B-movie monsters.

STEVE GOW

Comedy/Musical

Pitch Perfect

Director. Jason Moore

Stars. Anna Kendrick, Rebel Wilson, Brittany Snow

A toe-tappin', fun lovin' descendant of Glee, Pitch Perfect brings together talented actors and singers in yet another 21st century spin on Judy Garland / Mickey Rooney "Let's put on a show" genre. There's just enough freshman romance, competition, irony and bitchery to fill out a musical about a girl group competing for national capella honours following a humiliating loss the previous year. There's every college stereotype in the book and there's nothing new but the musical performances make it sing.

ANNE BRODIE

Drama

The Master

Director. Paul Thomas Anderson

Stars. Philip Seymour Hoffman, Joaquin Phoenix, Amy Adams

Director Paul Thomas Anderson uses the birth of a religion as a backdrop for a study in extreme behaviour focusing on two troubled men, 1950s mystic Lancaster Dodd (Philip Seymour Hoffman) and drunken naval officer Freddie Quell (Joaquin Phoenix). As Quell, Phoenix is a raw twitching nerve, part Brando, part Bukowski. It's an astonishing, revelatory performance. As untamed as Phoenix is, Hoffman is controlled, handing in a performance brimming with confidence.

RICHARD CROUSE

Drama

Compliance

Director. Craig Zobel

Stars. Ann Dowd, Dreama Walker

Craig Zobel's queasy drama about a fast-food restaurant plagued by a perverted crank caller is one of the most pressurized American movies in recent memory. Realistically staged and occasionally difficult to watch, Compliance goes beyond its based-on-a-true-story hook; it's got the shapeliness and finesse of a great thriller.

ADAM NAYMAN

Quoted

"I guess there's stuff that surprises me. I really haven't gone into deep, heavy discussions with people about the time travel logic and what they got and what they didn't, but so far the most surprising thing has been the stuff that we were trying to communicate seems to have gotten through. When you're making a movie, it feels like to some degree you're putting a message in a bottle and chucking it out to sea, and years later to talk to people who've seen it and hear that things landed for them, that feels really good."

Weaving a love story into apartheid tale

Winnie. Filmmaker looked at a major historical event through the relationship of Mandela and ex-wife

scene@metronews.ca

Darrell Roodt has taken flak for casting American actors in Winnie — his biopic about Nelson and Winnie Mandela. But the South African filmmaker is making no apologies.

"It's fine for Clint Eastwood to come to town and bring Morgan (Freeman)," defended Roodt recently referencing the American icon's 2009 hit Invictus. "But as soon as a South African does it, he gets nailed to the wall. My answer to this is very simple: I didn't hire American actors to play Nelson and Winnie, I hired great actors to play them."

The veteran director may have cast Oscar winner Jennifer

Winnie opens next Friday. HANDOUT

Hudson and nominee Terrence Howard to bring the one-time president and first-Lady of South Africa to the big screen but he believes the proof is in the stars' stellar performances — particularly Howard who not only takes on the uncanny appearance of Mandela, but did so even before it was necessary.

"He was astonishing. He was my choice when I was writing it and just to be around him when he was doing that was quite amazing," said Roodt. "He was Mandela six months before he came to shoot. Every time I had a phone conversation with him it was like talking to Mandela on the phone."

While the film (which hits theatres October 5) mostly centres on the controversial life of Winnie Mandela (who was an aggressive anti-apartheid activist all throughout her ex-husband's 27-year incarceration), Roodt also saw the drama as a beautiful love story. "The book that it's based on, the very last line says 'and so one of the great love stories of the 20th Century came to an end,'" explained Roodt. "When I read that I just thought that's such a perceptive insight."

Hockey Strike: The Movie

With the NHL strike in high gear, there's no hope for Canada's sport in sight and hockey players are fleeing to lace up their skates in Europe. As such, fans are forced to look for silver linings. With historical labour disruptions creating such classic cinematic hits as Norma Rae, Matewan and 2010's Made in Dagenham, one ponders whether the 2012 hockey strike couldn't at least make a decent movie, depending on the outcome, of course.

STEVE GOW
scene@metronews.ca

Bettman's Version

Stars: Bruce Willis (as Bettman), Rob Schneider (as Fehr), Keystone Cops (as Players)

Plot: Bettman the Hero holds out until the season is almost cancelled. Fehr comes crying, pleading for his forgiveness and accepts an astronomical wage rollback. Players who went overseas are replaced with the chimpanzees from the MVP: Most Valuable Primate movies.

Real-life version

Stars: NHL commissioner Gary Bettman, NHL Players Association chief Donald Fehr, and many hockey players

Plot: Bettman is asking Fehr that the players' share of hockey-related revenue (HRR) be reduced up to 14 per cent. Fehr doesn't accept and the athletes are locked out. While fans suffer, many players take offers to play in Europe. Owners/players are still multi-millionaires.

Fan's version

Stars: Larry the Cable Guy (playing every role except the fans)

Plot: A group of dedicated hockey fans invent a time machine and go back decades before Bettman and Fehr were in charge, when tickets were reasonably priced and hockey wasn't just a business negotiation between the rich.

Interview.

Electronica superstar lashes out at Metro writer during an interview about his new album

tarin.elbert@metronews.ca

The magic carpet that lifted Joel Zimmerman from his modest days as a computer geek in Niagara Falls, Ont., to the apex of electronica soars on. He was the first-ever electronic artist to front Rolling Stone, blew the wow-meter whistle with his Grammy performance, and just unleashed his sixth long player, already a near chart-topper in all places that matter.

Deadmau5's >album title goes here< ("There's no message in the title," he said during a Skype one-on-one), drives into you like a train at the get-go. From the sultry rumble of Superliminal, to the hump-hump pump of There Might Be Coffee, and the "let me do the time-warp with your head" shiver of the Close-Encounters-themed Closer, the happy beats just don't stop.

Well then, who needs "Molly?" For those who don't know, that's a reference to Deadmau5's expletive-laced Facebook rant directed at Madonna, after she asked partiers at the Ultra Music Festival: "How many people in this crowd have seen Molly?"

Clearly, a thinly veiled reference to the drug MDMA, also referenced in the title of the old girl's new album. (Metro was barred from asking Deadmau5 about this.)

Millions of Mouse fans, however, do have the opportunity to engage the feisty Zimmerman on social media, something he enjoys immensely.

"That's important to me... it's opening up that transparency between artist and fans, let them know what you're up to," he said over Skype. "I have pretty much dedicated my life to my career and my career to my life, to share that with other people is a wonderful thing."

When asked how he felt about some of his fans being high at his concerts, Zimmerman responded with: "You are dumbass for making such a stupid statement — all of the fans at my show are high? Are you high right now? I don't think that is a fair statement, I'd like to avoid that question."

No, we said some of your fans ... Can you talk about what the experience is like for you, then, creating this technological orgy during your performances?

"I am just too busy with my machines ... I just go into auto-pilot and go through the motions, as I do every show. Just try to deliver the best quality-sounding thing, as opposed to showboating it, I mean that's what the

Quotes

A few choice quotes from the interview

- Do you dance? "Not really, I am usually the head-nodder guy."
- What's the most club-friendly track on the album? "Closer is definitely more the clubby tune."
- Who do you listen to? "Radiohead, Nine Inch Nails, Boards of Canada, lots of different stuff."

production gear is for," Mouse said.

"I much prefer eyes on the gear, and take care of all that and let the show itself dazzle everyone as opposed to me getting played on a CD player and fist-pumping and doing cartwheels with two leopards," Mouse roared.

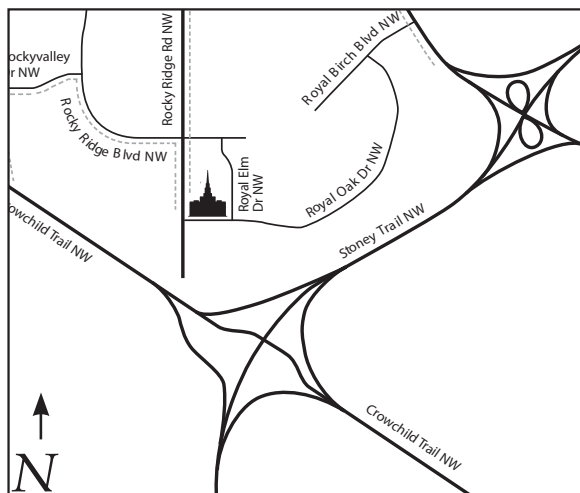

What does Zimmerman think of Billy Joe Armstrong's (Green Day) meltdown?

"I did not see it, I wasn't there and I don't know him. I wish him well. ...What does that have to do with the album?"

It was a question requested from a fan, sent to Metro via Twitter. "Well, I could ask questions on Twitter."

Dead silence ... Deadmau5 killed the call.

Ouch, this Mouse has claws.

Nicholas Brody Played by Damian Lewis

When we first met him...

Brody, the Marine sergeant who was held by al-Qaida as a prisoner of war for eight years, returned to the U.S. a war hero, but was suspected of being "turned" by terrorists and viewed as a risk to national security by CIA operative Carrie Mathison.

"In the first season, he was a man just trying to re-enter civilian life," Lewis says. "There was a degree of damage which elicited some sympathy from the audience, but at the same time he also was the menace. So people were terrified of him."

What's to come

Now a U.S. congressman, will Brody achieve his goal of de-stroying America from within?

"Brody made a mission statement at the end of the first season, saying he wanted a nonviolent political subversion of American policy," Lewis says.

"He would like to think he's in control of his own destiny. He absolutely won't be in my prediction for this season, and I think he will live in a state of heightened anxiety and paranoia and uncertainty. Essentially, he's everybody's b—. He's pretty f—ed."

Quoted

"He's like a suppurating sore that will, I imagine, need to be lanced at some point."

Carrie Mathison Played by Claire Danes

When we first met her...

As a CIA agent in Iraq, Carrie was told of an American POW who had been turned into an al-Qaida sleeper agent. Suffering from bipolar disorder — something she hid from nearly everyone — she became obsessed with the recently released Nicholas Brody, who fit the description of the terrorist.

"There was that crescendo of mania at the very end (caused by Carrie's bipolar disorder), but throughout that first season, it was sort of simmering," Danes says of her character's condition. Though her illness complicated things, Danes believes the highly intelligent Carrie had "some suspicion that maybe her condition was responsible for her genius. I think that's probably true for a lot of people with the condition," she adds.

What's to come

After Carrie's condition was made public, the disgraced operative sought treatment through electroconvulsive therapy. Undergoing the procedure, which can cause memory loss, led to her being unable to recall key information she uncovered about Brody — even after she is asked to return to duty.

"She's been outed as this person with this condition, and that has altered her in a pretty fundamental way," Danes says.

"She's not hiding to the same extent, and she doesn't have that same kind of panic and defensiveness. And when we find her at the beginning of the second season, she's been very humbled, and she's really struggling with a real crisis of confidence. She gets her mojo back, but it takes some time."

Quoted

"I think she is freer. I think she's a little bit less paranoid, you know, a little less high strung."

Schmid plays 'man of many faces' in Showcase period drama Copper

Hit TV. Ontario actor Schmid talks portrayal of Robert Morehouse in 1864 New York City

STEPHEN
scene@metronews.ca

When it comes to class barriers look no further than Showcase's hit period drama Copper.

Set in 1864 New York City, most of its characters live in either the impoverished immigrant neighbourhood of Five Points or the affluent Fifth Avenue. Robert Morehouse is among Manhattan's elite, having been born into a privileged family. A U.S. Civil War veteran, the conflict took its physical toll on the handsome young man while also instilling in him a newfound respect for the less fortunate. He returned home a changed person, as actor Kyle Schmid found when stepping into Morehouse's well-polished shoes.

"Since the beginning I've

Tune in

Copper airs Sunday nights on Showcase.

always seen Morehouse as a man of many faces and someone who's still trying to figure out who he really is as a man," notes Schmid. "I think for the majority of his life he always vied for his father Norbert's attention as well as validation, and in taking part in the war, a whole new world was blown wide open for him.

"Morehouse masks many of his admirable and even dangerous qualities at times with alcohol, drugs and women. He also has the opportunity to play some of the show's fun and lighter notes, which I think is great because those moments undermine how serious and quite capable he really is."

On the battlefield, Morehouse met Detective Kevin Corcoran (Tom Weston-Jones) and Dr. Matthew Freeman (Ato Essandoh), both of whom continue to play a part in his life.

"Morehouse's relationships with Freeman and Corcoran for me began as one thing and developed into something else entirely," says the Ontario native. "At first I thought they had this kind of kinship or bond that was stronger than the negative ideology of the time. However, after watching our characters grow throughout the first season, I realized that their 'friendship,' although layered with respect, was created more out of need and use of one another."

Behind the scenes, the actor enjoyed working with the entire Copper cast, including Geordie Johnson (Norbert Morehouse).

"Jordi is so much fun to work with," he says. "He not only plays his character so well, but the laughs and great times we had off-camera were fantastic and helped the sometimes long days go by so easily."

Is Schmid pleased with how Robert's story arc plays out in Copper's first season? "I am, and without saying too much or giving anything away, I think the best is yet to come."

K'naan's first book offers glimpse into childhood

Children's story.

When I Get Older is a window into rapper's life growing up in his native Somalia

As a newcomer to Canada, K'naan was able to find a source of both solace and expression through music.

The launch of his first-ever children's book represents a full-circle moment of sorts for the award-winning rapper, as he fuses literature, art and music to share his childhood story of the immigrant experience.

While the Somali-Canadian poet and MC initially planned — and still hopes — to pen a memoir for adults, When I Get Older: The Story Behind 'Wavin' Flag' documents a pivotal period of K'naan's life geared toward a younger audience.

The book offers a window into life growing up in his native Somalia, and his mother's decision for the family to flee the African country following the outbreak of civil war in 1991. It includes vibrant illustrations by Rudy Gutierrez as well as a brief summary on the history of Somalia.

When I Get Older chronicles the challenges K'naan faced adjusting to life in New York and later Toronto, where he describes feeling like an outsider in his new environment, from his clothes to contending with a crude classmate.

"I thought it would be really more interesting for me — at this moment anyway — to write a little story contextualizing certain things which could seem so mythical to kids, and putting them in simple words around a song they already love," K'naan said in a recent phone interview.

Music will again be in the forefront for K'naan with the upcoming release of Country, God or the Girl on Oct. 16. The new album will include a number of high-profile collaborations, including with Bono. K'naan and the U2 frontman have previously teamed up outside of the recording studio to bring awareness to the plight of famine in Somalia.

Streets Ahead/ The Tragically Hip

When I spoke to members of the band in mid-2011, they said they'd have a record that fall. Oops. And Now for Plan B is their 13th studio record.

The Second Law: Unsustainable/ Muse

After months of teasing, we're finally going to get The Second Law. This track specifically references the second law of thermodynamics, but I'm not sure if they got the physics right.

Flavor/Tori Amos

Could we be on the cusp of a major Tori renaissance? Possibly. There's good early buzz on Gold Dust.

Sherlock's legacy and Stephen King adaptations — this week on TV

If you think you know Sherlock Holmes, a new fast-paced doc directed by Gary Lang offers evidence that the famous fictional sleuth has influenced the 21st century in ways few could imagine. With help from a dynamic cast of real-life characters and a visual style designed to provoke and amuse, The Real Sherlock Holmes — airing Friday — dares to deduce that modern forensic science, espionage and even space travel might have evolved differently were it not for Holmes. (History)

Haven, based on the novella The Colorado Kid from horror/thriller author Stephen King, follows former FBI agent Audrey Parker (Emily Rose) who becomes a cop in Haven, Maine and soon discovers the small town's many secrets, which also hold the key to unlocking the mysteries of her lost past. Friday's season three premiere begins with Audrey having been brutally kidnapped. Nathan (Lucas Bryant) has been warned against pursuing a romantic relationship with Audrey while Duke (Eric Balfour) is seemingly engaged in a fight to the death with Nathan after he discovers his family lineage is to kill Haven citizens with troubles. (Showcase)

In Saturday's premiere of the comedy series The Neighbors, the Weavers are thrilled when they snag a house in an exclusive gated New Jersey community. But as soon as Marty (Lenny Venito), his wife Debbie (Jami Gertz) and their three children move in, they realize there's something strange about their new 'hood: their neighbours are aliens who have not met humans before. (CTV)

Settle back with some popcorn for a couple of great movies premiering on Bravo Saturday. Brokeback Mountain is a raw, powerful love story of two young men, Ennis Del Mar (Heath Ledger, The Dark Knight) and Jack Twist (Jake Gyllenhaal, Source Code). The two cowboys meet in the summer of 1963 sheepherding in the harsh grasslands of Wyoming and form an unorthodox yet lifelong bond.

In Untamed Heart, Caroline (Marisa Tomei, The Wrestler) has not had much luck in love. Then she meets shy, introverted Adam (Christian Slater, True Romance). When leaving work one day, she's attacked by two men and he comes to her rescue. (Bravo)

Emmy-winning The Good Wife, a well-written blend of courtroom drama, politics and steamy personal relationships, returns for a fourth season on Sunday with Will Gardner's (Josh Charles) suspension being lifted and Kalinda's (Archie Panjabi) mysterious and seemingly dangerous husband (Marc Warren) making his debut. The law firm Lockhart Gardner, headed by Diane Lockhart (Christine Baranski) and Will faces financial troubles and Nathan Lane will play the recurring role of a manager who wields the cost-cutting axe. Broadway veteran and Emmy winner Kristin Chenoweth plays a reporter in the premiere who tries to dig up some dirt on the secretly separated Alicia (Julianne Margulies) and Peter Florrick (Chris Noth). (Global, CBS)

The BBC period drama Call the Midwife is another U.K. hit that's crossing the pond. Airing Sunday, the drama is about a young midwife who cares for expectant mothers in 1950s-era east London. In the opener, Jenny Lee arrives at Nonnatus House, a convent of nursing nuns that's a far cry from the private hospital she expected. Her first case: caring for a woman who's on her 25th pregnancy. It's all in a day's work for Garner's hubby, Affleck

With three young kids already at home, Jennifer Garner says she's not planning to have any more children, despite husband Ben Affleck's desire for a bigger family.

But then that's the thing about plans: "I am not pregnant now. I plan to be done," Garner tells Ellen DeGeneres in an interview. "But my husband is kind of a wonder sperm kind of guy. You never

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

Russell Brand

Branding relationships

At this point, Russell Brand has been talking about his marriage to and divorce from Katy Perry almost as long as they were actually wed. In a candid interview with Australia's 60 Minutes, the British comedian talks about why things didn't work out between him and Perry. "Sometimes it goes well, sometimes it don't, but if you sort of sense there's an incompatibility, then in any relationship regardless of the status of the individual, it kind of is best to go separate ways," he says. "I think if you're a devoted tennis professional and you get married to a crystal meth addict, you might have trouble. I've been in a lot of trouble."

The Word

The latest in ridiculous celebrity baby names

Dorothy Robinson
scene@metronews.ca

The new trend in Hollywood baby names? Naming your child after a geographical location. In the past month, Nick Lachey and wife Vanessa Minnillo named their baby Camden, as did Kristin Cavallari and fiancé Jay Cutler. Next up in the locale-as-a-name trend? Reese Witherspoon, who gave birth to a baby boy named Tennessee James on Thursday. "Reese Witherspoon and husband Jim Toth welcomed Tennessee James into their family today," her rep confirmed to People magazine. "Both mom and baby are healthy and the entire family is thrilled." For those of you who are keeping track at home (and hopefully none of you are), let me bear the brunt of this useless information for you. There's also Brooklyn Cruz (son of Victoria and David Beckham), Bronx Mowgli Wentz (son of Ashlee Simpson and Pete Wentz, Egypt (son of Alicia Keys and Swizz Beatz), Paris Jackson (daughter of Michael Jackson and some very well-paid egg donor), and India Hemsworth (daughter of Chris Hemsworth and Elsa Pataky). As for me, I'm holding out for a little Tajikistan Spears some time in the near future.

What if it's all been a lie? So much time, effort and column space has been spent dissecting the marriage (Demi is a cougar!) and the eventual divorce (Ashton likes cheap, young Vegas tail!) between Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore.

And you know what? We shouldn't have. Really. As it looks like there wasn't a valid marriage to begin with.

Is Gaga a slut?

Lady Gaga has a lot of friends around the world, but Staten Island Borough President James Molinaro is definitely not one of them. "There's Gaga. I would call her a slut. This slut is influencing many, many children," Molinaro said at an anti-drug event earlier this week, criticizing Gaga's recent actions at a concert in Amsterdam during which she smoked marijuana on stage. "She's a slut in the pure word, in the pure meaning of the word," he explained. "A slut is someone that's immoral or uses improper conduct. So she's using improper conduct. So she's a slut. Anyone that would expose people that look up to them and who their idol is, to the use of narcotics, to me is a slut, male or female. It doesn't matter."

Lady Gaga

Tomlinson: What a dreamboat

One Direction boy-bander Louis Tomlinson wants the world to know he's a good boyfriend.

The 20-year-old Brit, who has been dating model Eleanor Calder for nearly a year, tells the magazine

Fabulous UK that he's planning to remain faithful. "Sorry girls, I'll never sleep around," he says. "I'm a very loyal boyfriend. I'm a bit of a joker. I can be romantic, but not too sickly."

Cook modern Indian fare just like Vikram Vij

Marinated Lamb Popsicles. The famed Vancouver chef shares the secret to his eatery's signature dish

IZABELA SZYDLO
life@metronews.ca

Since 1994, Vikram Vij and his wife Meeru Dhalwala have been serving up Indian food in their Vancouver restaurant Vij.

The creations have won them praise (the New York Times called the eatery "easily among the finest Indian restaurants in the world") and accolades, including the title of Best Restaurant in Canada by a vacay.ca, a North-America-wide study.

The famed chef has even expanded his empire to include cookbooks and frozen foods that are free of all preservatives, hormones and gluten (vijos.ca).

Extremely proud of his Indian roots, Vij has also become an advocate of education into Indian food and cooking.

Ingredients

Lamb

- 1/4 cup sweet white wine
- 3/4 cup grainy yellow mustard
- 1 tsp salt
- 1 tsp ground black pepper
- 4 lbs French-cut racks of lamb, in chops

Curry Sauce

- 4 cups whipping cream
- 1 tsp salt
- 1 tsp paprika
- 1/2 tsp ground cayenne pepper
- 1 tsp dried green fenugreek leaves
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1/4 cup canola oil
- 3 tbsp finely chopped garlic
- 1 tsp turmeric

This recipe serves six. VIJ'S RESTAURANT

He shares his recipe for Marinated Lamb Popsicles with Fenugreek Cream Curry.

"This is our signature dish at Vij's — probably our most famous and most popular," Vij says. "The size of the Lamb Popsicles will depend on the rack of lamb you buy. If the popsicles are bigger, four per order is usually enough. This recipe is for 30 medium-size popsicles, with five per order. Serve these popsicles over new potatoes."

1. Combine wine, mustard, salt and pepper in large bowl. Add lamb and coat well with marinade. Cover bowl with plastic wrap and refrigerate 2 to 4 hours.

2. In bowl, combine cream, salt, paprika, cayenne, fenugreek leaves and lemon juice.

3. Heat 3 to 4 tbsp of oil in medium pot on medium heat and sauté garlic until golden. Stir in turmeric and cook 1 minute. Stir in cream mix and cook on low to medium heat for about 5 minutes, or until it is gently boiling.

4. Preheat stove-top cast iron grill or barbecue to high heat. Place lamb on grill and cook 3 minutes per side.

5. Serve popsicles piping hot off grill. Place four to five lamb chops on each plate. Pour cream curry over meat or ladle it into

Vij's Indian cooking tips

• New flavours. Buy a selection of Indian spices and try adding them to a dish you're cooking. Let your taste buds decide what you like, and don't be restricted by a recipe.

• Buy local ingredients. Doing this in Canada can give Indian meals a very unique twist. You're turning locally sourced products into curries.

LIQUID ASSETS
Peter Rockwell
@therealwineguy
liquidassets@eastlink.ca

Readers are always asking me for a cheat sheet to help them make the perfect food and wine pairing.

While I really wish I had one, the best advice I can give is to look for synergy. By that I mean eats and drinks that originate in the same place always taste better together.

The closer the origins of both the liquid and solid are, the better the marriage will be because winemaking is the yin to the culinary industry's yang.

So what do you do when a country is famous for its unique cuisine but not for its wine output?

India is a classic example. Though it's been pressing grapes for decades, it doesn't export much and the eclectic nature of a plate of Indian-themed eatables is almost grounds for divorce when trying to create the perfect wine marriage.

The crisp effervescence of a dry sparkling wine is a good way to go. As is a white with a hint of sweetness.

The Germans do that kind of vino best, with Schmitt Söhne's 2011 Relax Riesling — a bright, refreshing wine that will soften the blow of even the most aggressive curried dishes.

PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

NHL

League, union to resume talks

The NHL's collective bargaining talks are set to restart with a session that is likely to run through the weekend.

And with the league announcing the cancellation of the remainder of the pre-season on Thursday, negotiations will have to pick up steam to prevent the loss of meaningful games.

The league and NHL Players' Association have blocked off Friday, Saturday and Sunday for meetings in New York after spending more than two weeks away from the bargaining table.

The talks resume with the scheduled Oct. 11 start to the regular season drawing near. THE CANADIAN PRESS

NFL

Regular referees return to the field

The replacement officials are gone and the NFL is sorry it took so long. Now fans can go back to complaining about the calls made by the regular refs.

The sport's experiment with replacements ended Thursday night when a veteran crew worked the Ravens' 23-16 win over the Browns. Commissioner Roger Goodell apologized to fans for the anxiety of the last three weeks while denying that using replacement officials increased the chances of flagrant mistakes. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Eskis backup QB gets Battle of Alberta call

CFL. As injuries mount for Edmonton, third-string pivot set to make first career start

In his own words

"It's been a couple of years since I've played a real, meaningful game."

Edmonton Eskimos quarterback Matt Nichols, on his first CFL start in Friday's clash with the Calgary Stampeders at McMahon Stadium

The Edmonton Eskimos hope the man who was their third-stringer to start this season can produce a storybook first CFL start.

Mired in a four-game losing streak, the Eskimos will look to quarterback Matt Nichols for much-needed relief when they visit the Calgary Stampeders on Friday.

"Matt is a decisive decision-maker," Edmonton head coach Kavis Reed said Thursday at McMahon Stadium. "Although you can't simulate game speed in practice, when we put him in scenarios and circumstances in which he has to be a quick thinker, he's passed the test with flying colours."

The 25-year-old from Redding, Calif., is getting the ball because the Eskis say neither Steven Jyles nor Kerry Joseph are healthy enough to start. Both are on Friday's game roster, however, with Jyles at No. 2 behind Nichols.

Nichols, an Eastern Washington product, was signed by Edmonton in 2010.

He's had time to absorb the Canadian game, throwing his first career touchdown pass Sept. 7 in a 20-18 loss to the Stampeders.

"I feel comfortable with the things I've done this week, things I've learned over the last year and a half with this team," Nichols said.

Friday's game is the third meeting between Calgary and Edmonton this month. The Stampeders edged the Eskis 31-30 on Labour Day and won the rematch four days later by two points.

It hasn't been a comfortable week for Calgary. A four-game winning streak ended Sunday when they played sloppily in a 30-25 loss to the Roughriders.

Star running back Jon Cornish was fined an undisclosed amount by the league and publicly admonished by his coach John Hufnagel for pulling his pants down and mooning Roughrider fans at Mosaic Stadium.

The Stamps had their own quarterback drama with fears Kevin Glenn suffered a concussion due to a hard hit from Saskatchewan's Odell Willis late in the game.

Glenn, 33, says he passed concussion tests and no longer suffers headaches. Bo Levi Mitchell, also a quarterback at Eastern Washington (after Nichols), will be Glenn's backup. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Raising a glass to '72 Summit Series heroes

40th anniversary.

Weekend gala dinner to conclude a celebration of hockey history, and Canada's shot heard around the world

Paul Henderson still can't explain it, even 40 years later.

Sitting on the bench with time winding down in the eighth and final game of the '72 Summit Series, Henderson abruptly stood up and yelled at Pete Mahovich to come off.

"I felt I had to get on the ice," Henderson recalled recently. "A tie was no good, they were going to claim victory because they had scored more goals than we did. I really wish I had an answer, but I don't. I just felt I had to get out there, I felt I could score a goal."

He was right, of course.

Henderson fired a rebound past the Soviet Union's Vladislav Tretiak to give Canada a series-clinching 6-5 victory at Moscow's Luzhniki Ice Palace.

Exactly 40 years to the day after that iconic goal, the 69-year-old Henderson and the remaining members of the Canadian squad will cap a month of celebrations with a gala dinner Friday night.

Paul Henderson, centre, speaks alongside teammates from the '72 Summit Series during the team's induction into Canada's Walk of Fame in Toronto earlier this month. The month-long celebration of Team Canada's famous victory over the Soviet Union concludes this weekend. NATHAN DENETTE/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Henderson, who has been battling cancer since 2010, was one of Canada's top goal scorers in the Summit Series. But his deciding goal remains one of the biggest and most memorable in Canadian hockey history, a fact he didn't really appreciate until watching Sidney Crosby's winning goal for Canada at the 2010 Winter Games in Vancouver.

"I think one of the things we don't do well as Canadians is celebrate a lot of times, but especially with hockey," Henderson said. "When Crosby scored, man, I was jumping up and down and so I understand what Canadians were doing when I scored."

But Henderson wouldn't have scored if not for Phil Esposito, the heart and soul of the '72 team who fired the first shot at Tretiak.

"I was at the faceoff dot to the right of Tretiak," Esposito said.

"Like nine out of 10 times I hit the net, I very seldom missed the net when I had an opportunity to hit it ... and Tretiak, for some unexplained

He shoots ... he scores!

Paul Henderson's heroics weren't limited to Game 8 of the 1972 Summit Series.

- Statistics. Henderson registered 10 points for Canada with seven goals and three assists in the eight-game series.
- Rallying Canada. He also scored the winning goals in the sixth and seventh games, which the Canadians also had to win after dropping three games to the Soviets.

reason, pushed the rebound straight out and Paul, who had fallen behind the net, got up and came out because they must have lost him, just came out and put the rebound in."

Hollywood couldn't have written it better, Henderson said.

"I'm 69 and I can't think of anybody who has lived a better life than I have, even with cancer," he said. "I wouldn't change places with anybody. Canadians celebrate this, I get it every day, and I think it was a meaningful time for Canadians who were alive and can remember at that point."

CFL. Punishment very public for Stamps, Cornish

CFL EXTRA POINTS
Dan Toth
calgary@metronews.ca

thinks league rules don't apply to him.

Saskatchewan Roughriders: One of the greatest differences between the CFL and NFL is the media's treatment of inept officiating. While the NFL's incompetent replacement officials have been vilified by U.S. broadcast crews, the likes of TSN's Glen Sutor sometimes gloss over the inadequacies of Canuck officiating. When Tristan Jackson's obvious pass interference against Johnny Forzani went uncalled on a key third-down play late in the Riders-Stamps game last Sunday, Sutor suggested it was a "close call" even though replays made it clear Jackson should have been flagged for pass interference. We know how important the CFL franchise is for TSN, and the inadequate officiating affects all teams equally, but the TV crew shouldn't turn a blind eye to missed calls.

Calgary Stampeders: Jon Cornish took the "cl" out of class last week by mooning fans in Regina, and the Stampeders franchise endured heaps of public embarrassment as president Lyle Bauer, head coach John Hufnagel, and Cornish issued public apologies for the running back's unprofessional behaviour. Cornish probably should have been suspended for his actions, but the public humiliation the franchise has endured through this incident is punishment enough. While the Stamps have attracted more than their share of players with questionable conduct, the team showed considerable class by promptly apologizing for Cornish's shenanigans.

B.C. Lions: Lions management can't possibly allow Khalif Mitchell to parade his bogus account for his on-field "throat-slash" gestures last weekend in Edmonton. Mitchell was fined an undisclosed amount for making the banned gestures that were directed towards his opponents. The Lions need to admit his misconduct and assess similar punishment with their player, who has been in hot water before and apparently Winnipeg Blue Bombers: Bombers coach Tim Burke must be excited to know his defence won't face Ricky Ray on Saturday when the Bombers host Toronto. That said, Burke's Bombers won't have an easy time collecting their second straight win as the injured Ray has been replaced by veteran backup Jarious Jackson. Burke coached against Jackson in U.S. college and says he "respects" Jackson's mobility and arm strength.

John Cornish's public embarrassment was punishment enough for last week's mooning incident. THE CANADIAN PRESS FILE

Horoscopes

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

Try to see those you deal with as individuals in their own right rather than as pieces on a chessboard to be moved at your whim. Paying attention to other people's needs today will bring benefits to you as well.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Take stock of your daily routine and decide where you can make savings in time and effort. Also make sure your physical health is not compromised in any way. If you feel you need a break then take one.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Saturn, the taskmaster of the zodiac, moves out of your fellow Air sign of Libra in a week or so but already it feels as if your personal load is less heavy. Try not being quite so serious about life.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You need to focus more on domestic matters today, and that means less time for social activities. There will be plenty of time for fun and games later but for now you must put loved ones first.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Interesting new people will come into your life today and over the weekend, the kind of people who inspire you and know how to make you laugh. All in all, the world seems a better, happier, sunnier place.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Both at home and at work you are encouraged to pay more attention to the value you place on both possessions and relationships. Some things are worth fighting for. Some things are for life. Do you know what they are?

♏ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

As Saturn nears the end of its two-year journey through your sign, you should look back and learn from events that may not always have been to your liking. Admit it: they've made you a better person.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You need to face up to problems that you have somehow managed to avoid these past few months. You can hide your feelings from others but you cannot hide them from yourself, so do what has to be done — now!

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

The planets are asking you to push your pride to one side and admit, if only to yourself, that you don't know all the answers. This can be a time of positive change in your life, but you must be humble.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Saturn, your ruler, is making its last push through the career area of your chart, so opportunities on the work front can be expected. The fact is you are capable of so much more — so start doing it.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

If knowledge is power then you will gain in strength over the next few days and by the time Saturn changes signs on Oct. 5, you will be on your way to fame and glory. Will it really be that good? Yes!

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Money matters take centre stage today and you will need to be sensible. Most of all, you need to realize that certain goals will only be reached if you are ready and willing to work with other people.

THE ALL SUFFICIENT GOD

It is only God's blessings that make rich and add no pain. God specialises in blessing people without attaching any condition. He is the El-shadai whose wealth is in abundance. His bank can never fail neither can He go bankrupt. God is ever ready to bless, however, you must have a relationship with Him in order to partake of this blessing. Come to Jesus who will reconcile you to God.
